

DEVASTATION IN PALU

No siren, no warning

BY JORGE SILVA AND ATHIT PERAWONGMETHA

OCTOBER 4 – 13 PALU

A woman holds a stuffed rabbit toy after it was found at her destroyed home, where she said she had lost her three children, in Palu, Central Sulawesi, Indonesia, October 7, 2018.
REUTERS/Jorge Silva

People on a motorcycle ride past damaged houses in front of a stranded ship in the port hit by a tsunami on the coastline in Palu, Central Sulawesi, Indonesia, October 13, 2018. REUTERS/Jorge Silva

A woman is comforted as she cries after identifying the remains of a relative who died in the Balaroa neighbourhood during an earthquake in Palu, Central Sulawesi, Indonesia, October 6, 2018.
REUTERS/Athit Perawongmetha

A mosque damaged by the September earthquake and tsunami is seen in a bay in Palu, Central Sulawesi, Indonesia, October 5, 2018.
REUTERS/Athit Perawongmetha

A victim of the September earthquake and tsunami is pictured inside a hospital in Palu, Central Sulawesi, Indonesia, October 4, 2018.
REUTERS/Athit Perawongmetha